Canadian Legion Meet. Weather Delays Curling Season

Forty-five members were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Canadian Legion on Saturday night, an indication of the popularity of the meetings among the returned veterans.

The report of the secretary showed that the Armistice Day activities had been successful in every respect and that financially they had a substantial balance to the good.

The members living to the west of town announced their intention of entertaining the other members of the Didsbury branch to a dance at Inverness School on Friday, Dec. 11.

Arrangements were made to hold a Christmas Tree & Concert for all ex-soldiers' children, the date of which will be announced later.

As the next meeting will fall on Dec. 26th, it was decided to hold a sneaker, to which all returned men and their families will be invited.

Trelle Again Wins Wheat Championship

Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alberta, again won the wheat king title at the International Livestock Show and Grand Exposition held at Chicago with his sample of Durum wheat.

O. Edson Smith, of Carville, Montana, won the reserve championship with an exhibit of White Spring.

The Alberta exhibitor was given the title for the best Durum wheat, springing a surprise, for he took the title last year on the showing of his Red Spring wheat. Of the five classes of wheat, Durum is usually considered the least powerful of cereals, but for the title, Hard Red Spring or Hard Red Winter being used the king winner.

Trelle, however, beat the previous year's winner, by taking only the third in the Hard Red Spring, to give it to fellow Albertan, Joseph H. Smith, of Well Creek, who took second, and to C. H. Gilbert, of Big River, Sask., who was given first.

Because for the first time in the grain and hay show, one individual had been crowned wheat king three times, Trelle will be awarded the international wheat cup to keep permanently. Of the 72 prizes in the hard red spring wheat exhibit at the International Grain Exhibition, 68 went to Western Canada growers.

The Didsbury Creamery again upheld its standing when it obtained three firsts with its exhibit of butter at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto this fall. The numerous winnings at the large fairs throughout Canada during the past season reflects great credit on the local butter-maker, Mr. Geo. Julian.

Alberta butter made an even better showing than last year and obtained 17 firsts, 14 seconds and 8 thirds.

In the special prints class, the Central Creameries of Alberta took the championship.

A Call To Service

Throughout Canada and the United States national campaigns are now in progress to raise funds and supplies wherewith to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of people without employment and lacking the very necessities of life.

In the United States a great voluntary organization has been called into existence upon invitation of President Hoover, and it is now engaged in a whirling campaign organized upon similar lines to those followed during the war and in the recent Red Cross flood disaster appeal. The press, the theatres, the radios, the pulpit, every known kind of organization—all are being mobilized with a view to raising tens of millions of dollars within a few weeks.

In Canada, the Federal and Provincial Governments have assumed responsibility for relief measures, assisted by the municipalities. During the last session of parliament, following Premier Bennett's description of the existing situation in Western Canada as "a national calamity," the House of Commons unanimously voted an unlimited amount of relief. It was not made a party issue, but the Government's request for adequate funds was supported by Conservative, Liberal, Progressive and Labor alike.

But in Canada, as in the United States, the magnitude of the need and the urgency of the claims of tens of thousands of people upon the sympathy and practical support of their fellow citizens calls for the active co-operation of all people and organizations. The problem is too big for even the united forces of Federal and Provincial Governments.

The Prime Minister of Canada has therefore made an appeal to all the people of Canada, and all the organizations of Canada, to support a nation-wide campaign, ready funds to supplement the efforts of governments in meeting the needs of those who must be supplied with food, clothing, fuel and shelter throughout the coming winter months.

In times of national disaster, such as the Halifax explosion and the southern Ontario fires, or international disasters like the Japanese earthquake, the people of Western Canada organized their forces and gave generously to the needs of the stricken. This year not so much will be expected from the people of the Prairie Provinces; instead of being given, thousands of our people will be the recipients. It is because of the Western situation that the present appeal is made: it is in the West that conditions approaching a national disaster exist.

Nevertheless there is much that our Western people can do to assist each other; much that neighbor can do for neighbor, and friend for friend. There are thousands of us who can still spare a little something for somebody else. Quite a considerable number of people have already "adopted" some other person or family and have been assisting them for months past, and will continue to do so while the necessity exists. This most unselfish "adoption" of others in need can, without very great sacrifice on the part of many, be very greatly extended. It will help our Governments in meeting their problems; it will help to keep down the mounting burden of public debt and taxation which is liable to seriously cripple our future activities and return to better times; it will save some of the more sensitive people from "going on relief" which some regard with almost as much dismay as starvation itself.

Let us, therefore, recapture some of the old war-times spirit of service and sacrifice. Let me feel the thrill of a great spiritual experience. Let us do our part, small though it may be, to make adequate provisions for those in need in our own communities, so that the fear of cold and hunger will be banished from the hearts of thousands of our fellow-citizens. Such gifts bless the givers. It will lift your own spirit. It will help to end the depression and lay a firm foundation for better times. These great national campaigns in Canada and the United States may well prove the turning point in that direction. Therefore, do your part, liberally as you can; most gladly in any event.

Fine Collection of Paintings

One of the finest collections of paintings in the world is soon to be exhibited at the Dominion's gallery at the Valentine. The gallery covers an area of more than 9000 square yards. Half a dozen spacious salons will house paintings of six principal art schools, from the Byzantine to that of the 18th century. Two special galleries are completely dedicated to the work of Leonardo da Vinci and of Raphael.

Mrs. Bay Driskwater, R.R. No. 2, Hagerville, Ont., writes: "I am the mother of seven children, and last summer one of them, 17 months old, was taken very sick with diarrhoea, and I thought she would die."

"My husband went 7 miles to see what my sister had given her, and he came home with a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I gave the child a few doses and she was soon well again. The other children also had diarrhoea at that time and I gave them 'Dr. Fowler's' with the same results."

Pacific Relations Meet

Fourth Biennial Conference Is Held At Shanghai

The fourth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, the non-official group for the discussion of international problems, was held in Shanghai. It was the first such conference in China, the first two having been held in Hawaii and the third in Kyoto, Japan. Despite the Sino-Japanese difficulties in Manchuria, complete delegations for both Japan and China were present.

Dr. Hushui, Chinese poet, philosopher, and cultural leader, president of the conference said Japanese and Chinese members realized good might result from their meeting together as enlightened men and women "regardless of the calamities which herald their countries through the folly of their rulers."

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing a lovely green one—an imported dress—lost colour so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked why it was not dyed. I told him more. On hearing the reason she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out excellently. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just £5—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes."

I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I will not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. The dyes are made so they always go on smoothly and evenly. They never spot, streak or run, and friends, never know the things I do with Diamond Dyes are dyed at all!"

Mrs. R.F. Quebec.

Ruling On Aviation

Provinces Have Control Only Within Their Own Boundaries

The Canadian Council of the Privy Council has allowed the appeal of the Dominion Government of Canada against a decision of the supreme court of Canada on the reference of the question of whether the Dominion or the Provincial authorities have jurisdiction over aviation matters in Canada.

The supreme court had decided the Dominion may control such aeronautical matters as are involved in international affairs and such aerial activities as the Dominion itself engages in, but ruled the provinces had jurisdiction to control and legislate on aviation matters within their own boundaries.

The supreme tribunal, however, upheld the Canadian Government's contention to supreme jurisdiction over aviation matters in Canada. Their leadership decision incidentally upheld the validity of Dominion aeronautical legislation which had been challenged by the provinces.

Both Premiums and Losses Much Lower

Marked Drop Shown In Business Of Hail Protection Companies

Business done by the 33 line hail insurance companies operating in western Canada in 1931, amounted to only about one-sixth of the 1930 total, both the income and losses of the companies being reduced to this proportion of the previous year's business.

Net losses amounted to $403,651 in 1931, as against losses of $2,651,326 last year. This represents a saving of $2,248,275 in 1931 from the 1930 figure.

At the same time the gross premiums in the three prairie provinces dropped from $2,965,389 last year to $431,129 in 1931. Accordingly, the gross income of the companies increased by $2,525,269 during the present year.

These conclusions were to be drawn from figures supplied to The Regina Leader-Post by H. H. Campion, secretary of the Canadian Hail Underwriters' Association.

Alberta had suffered particularly heavy losses in proportion to the premiums paid for the past few years, Mr. Campion indicated.

"From the previous disastrous experience in the provinces of Alberta, many of the companies are seriously considering withdrawing from that province or from the hail insurance business entirely," he said. "Three companies in business since 1916 have already signified their intention to discontinue writing this class of insurance."

Of the 53 companies whose premiums and losses were represented in the figures he said, 36 were now writing in Alberta, 51 in Saskatchewan and 46 in Manitoba.

From the gross premium totals the expenses of carrying on business would have to be deducted.

Canada's Boat Industry

The building of small pleasure boats and canoes has expanded in a marked degree within the past five years by 30 per cent. in the number of establishments and by 88 per cent. in the value of the products made. The centre of the industry is Peterborough, Ont., where about 25 per cent. of the craft are turned out, the value of which runs to about $600,000, while the production of all Canada is around $2,000,000.

Sees New Period Beginning In Expansion And Development Of Business In Western Canada

(By John F. Sweeting, Industrial Commissioner, Western Lines, Canadian Pacific Railway)

No change of particular note has taken place in the West during the last month. Conditions remain steady with varying changes in trade and some seasonal imports. The grain crop has been rapidly harvested and with short delays in the West, is of good grade. Advantage has been taken of the favourable weather to prepare land for the 1932 crop, and heavy rainfall at intervals in different parts of the West have put the land in good condition for such operations.

One of the most interesting events during September was the visit of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to the West and the holding of its annual meeting in Regina. The visit brought with it the opportunity of a full discussion on Canadian affairs and conditions, and enabled a broader view of the existing situation and prospects for future business to be gauged than is possible when considering only local affairs. It is probable that in paying so much attention to the debit side of current business, the value of Canada's assets, which apparently amount to something over thirty billion dollars, not including undeveloped natural resources, has been overlooked. While such resources are not, of course, inexhaustible they are factors in calculating the business of Canada for future years.

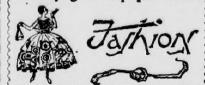

It is along these lines that present business must give heed to what it is going to accomplish in the next 10 years, rather than to its immediate outlook. Granted that the industrial situation has shown some retrogression and the crop of the West is below the average in quantity and price, the crop situation in Eastern Canada, the increase in construction work; the tourist business; lower production and living costs must be factors in the building up of new business, which will show much greater gains, when the upward movement starts. Perhaps the present is being watched closely to see the coming change, or only an immediate situation is being assessed while not enough heed is being given to what the future holds in store.

Industrial enquiries coming into the West are of sufficient significance to give rise to the idea that a good deal of consideration is being given to this field as a manufacturing centre, and that if plans for actual development are being held up, there is no slackening in the investigations taking place by representatives both from Great Britain and the United States. Conversations which have taken place between the West and overseas representatives all look to the ultimate development of Western branches in a field that will yield good business in the near future, and which recognizes the necessity of manufacturing within the territory. While the present is difficult, there appears to be little doubt as to the expansion and development of the Western field in the not too distant future.

Undoubtedly, the low price of staple products has introduced a good flow of domestic business, but the uncertainties in the present situation, notwithstanding low costs, are holding up the purchase of major products, such as machinery, which means that the large industries are not getting the necessary support. Confidence is still lacking in relation to the situation as a whole, but constructive efforts are being brought to bear on a situation which must, by reason of fact, as far as Canada is concerned, of its productive powers and ability to find new markets, soon get back to a trading level of characteristic proportions. This is essentially the beginning of a new period, within which consideration must be given to future business and preparation made to take advantage of it. A way out has always been found. The present situation demands a new gateway. Its solution appears to be near.

Suggestion of a national holiday honoring the late Thomas A. Edison, has been broadened into a proposed international Edison Day. ### Facts About Baffin Island

Largest Island In The Canadian Arctic Archipelago

Baffin Island with an area of 200,000 square miles is the largest of the islands in the Canadian Arctic Archipelago. Its very size is the reason that though it was visited by Martin Frobisher, the great Elizabethan seaman in 1576, it has not borne the name Baffin longer than forty-five years.

Though the coast line was pretty well known by 1822 when Parry passed through Fury and Hecla Strait, there was still uncertainty as to whether various deep bays were actually bays and not channels dividing the island into several islands. Even Arrowsmith in his map of 1843 is not sure on this point. His map gives the southern portion near Frobisher Strait as "Meta Incognita," a name given by Queen Elizabeth following Frobisher's discoveries. Near Cumberland gulf the name Cumberland Island is written, a name applied to the whole island on Fox's map, 1625. The northern portion of the island Arrowsmith calls Cockburn Land, as Parry named it in 1822. Another name not shown by Arrowsmith is Foxe land applied to the southwest portion of the island, after Foxe's discovery of it in 1631.

The name Baffin as far as the Geographic Board of Canada is aware, was first applied to the island on Admiralty Chart No. 863 published June 28, 1884. The island adjacents Baffin Bay and its eastern shores to their northern limit were seen first by William Baffin, the British explorer, when he penetrated as far north as Smith sound on his ninth polar voyage in 1616.

Giving All They Can

Hats off to the unemployed of Walkerville, Ontario, who offer to give part of their spare time gratis to removing leaves and rubbish from the parks and boulevards of the town and to gathering in fruits and vegetables for welfare work, while their wives sew and knit. When the workers help one another and show an appreciative spirit the heart of the community goes out to them.

Not Safety In Number

Keeping his uniform trousers in pawn for nearly four months cost Police Sergeant Victor Lehmann his job. He managed to get along by borrowing trousers from colleagues who happened to be off duty until one day when the police force was called out. The sergeant had to report in civilian trousers and was dismissed immediately.

Canada Holds Fourth Position In Per Capita Trade Among Trading Nations Of The World

Standardized Pronunciation

New Form Of English Suggested To Be Called Anglo-American

If, in the future, there is to be a standardized pronunciation of the English language there is a possibility that part of the result will give to Hollandwood. Since the advent of talking films the defects of British and American speech have been increasingly apparent. Instances in which the pronunciations of the two countries differed radically have necessitated the making of both an American and an English version of the same film. This is the case in a recent picture containing frequent use of the word "lieutenant" which is pronounced "lefe-tenant" in the English version and "boote-men" in the American version.

Now, questions Herbert Marshall, a London actor, why should there not be a new form of English embodying the best points of both countries speech and acceptable to audiences in Australia as well? He suggests that the language be called "Anglo-American" and concludes that it is probable, on the whole, that "Anglo-American" will be more "Anglo" than "American" though, he adds, Englishmen will of course have to adopt many of the American words and forms of expression, as they are now doing, and Americans in turn will have to adopt more of the English forms of courtesy.

Mr. Marshall illustrates the necessity for the standardization of the "a" sound on the part of the English by using the word "plaza." In its correct Spanish form, the word has almost the form sound of "plaza." Some Americans call it "plazza" and others "plazza." There is a cockney variation with an "al" sound. The affected English say "plawza." The ignorant say "playza." There is a cockney variation with an "al" sound. The correct "Anglo-American" pronunciation, he adds, is between "plaza" and "plazza." #### Dehydration Of Market Fruit

Canadian imports annually almost 90,000,000 pounds of market fruit. To dry out either or not much of this could be profitably replaced by Canadian grown stock. Mr. C. E. G. of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has been operating experimental dehydration plants in the provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

Memo—Go Fishing!

The fishing season of 1931 may be drawing to a close, but the ardent angler, packing away his rods and flies with a sigh, has still many a fishing treat in store through the medium of "Memo—Go Fishing," just published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company and written by Bob Becker, internationally known fisherman and for the past ten years editor of "Woods and Waters" in the Chicago Tribune. Mr. Becker has played swordfish in the Pacific; hooked sailfish in the Gulf Stream, taken Dolly Varden trout from Alaskan waters, and angled for golden trout in lakes 11,000 feet up in the Sierras. From bass to barracuda, from trout to tuna, from pike to piranha, he tells of them all in many an exciting battle where sometimes he and quite often his quarry came off best. Canada is however his predilection, judging by the amount of space given the Dominion in this book of 350 pages. The French River, Nipigon River, and Lake of the Woods region are the scenes of many of his adventures and whole chapters are devoted to the wild musky and the fighting bass that have made these waters famous. Photographs show last phase of a battle with a trout on the Nipigon River.

Canada continued to hold her position as the fifth trading nation of the world in 1930, according to the annual report of the Department of Trade and Commerce issued recently. In per capita trade among the world trading nations the Dominion rose from seventh position in 1913 to fourth position in 1930, while gradually moving down the scale in per capita volume of imports.

In production of printing paper, nickel and asbestos, the Dominion led all others. Canada is the world's second largest gold producing country, and in output of wheat and zinc holds third place.

As far as exports are concerned the Dominion leads the world in wheat, newspaper, nickel and asbestos, is second in the export of automobiles and wheat flour, while ranking high in wood pulp, lumber, fish, copper, raw furs, etc.

Depressed values the world over are reflected in the trade figures for the current fiscal year. Reports issued by the Department show that for the first half of the fiscal year April to September, this country imported commodities having a value of $218,221,727, while the value of exports was $295,516,889.

The imports were about $165,000,000 lower than for the corresponding period of 1930 and the export values dropped by about $138,000,000.

Duty collected during the six months was $61,312,307, as against $80,743,333, or roughly $19,000,000 under collections for the same period a year ago.

Wood Buffalo Park Map

Most Northerly Area Of Any Size Mapped In Canada

As an aid in the administration of the Wood Buffalo Park by the North West Territories and Yukon Branch of the Department of the Interior, there has just been issued by the Topographical Survey of that Department a map of the park on the scale of eight miles to the inch.

This park lies west of Slave and Athabasca Rivers, partly in the province of Alberta and partly in the Northwest Territories, and comprises some 12,000,000 square miles. It beyond the present range of intensive settlement and as a consequence maps of this region have been greatly lacking in detail, thereby rendering more difficult the problems of administration.

The present map is designated as an exploratory edition only due to the fact that the information as yet is by no means complete and much further work is required to make it so. The mapping information was largely obtained by the use of aerial photography and to date this area is the most northerly one of any considerable size so mapped in Canada.

Some Profit

Farmers should not become too reckless with the big money they are making these days. Prices are liable to drop, and the first thing they know they will be faced with times. Last week a Skinner Township farmer shipped a cow to the Toronto market and after all expenses had been paid he was 87 cents in pocket on the sale of the beast.

Car bandits took a safe containing only twenty shillings from London to Bristol before they discovered the fact. Nice to know a pound will go so far these days.

The Canadian Farm Loan Act.

ARTICLE No. 5

In this article I intend to deal with the social advantage of the Farm Loan Board system of mortgage. Under the present system it takes years to pay off a mortgage as it becomes due, but he very seldom makes any provision for the principal until he has to. In fact, many investors do not wish payments on the principal so long as the interest is being paid. The result is that when the mortgage does come due, the farmer must pay a large sum representing the principal, which is usually very inconvenient for him, or else renew it for another term and continue paying interest. Under the Farm Loan scheme of amortization, the borrower pays the principal as he goes along.
 If his mortgage is for 35 years, he will pay off the principal in 15 years. Under the Farm Loan Act, five dollars less per year than the amount of the principal plus interest, he will pay in interest alone at eight per cent, and still his principal is being looked after. When he makes his final payment to the Board, he is finished. Also he has the privilege of paying, if he so wishes, all the principal still due, or any part of it over and above his regular payment at any time after his loan has run for five years. Under the Act, the farmer gradually works himself out of debt with little effort, while under the present system it is very hard for him to pay off the principal when it comes due, and keep up his interest payments at the same time.

The success of the scheme depends upon the support of the investing public, for it is to them the bonds must be sold. In the United States Farm Loans are free from taxation, as an inducement for people to buy them. This should give every encouragement to place their savings in them, as by doing so they are not only helping themselves to wealth and independence by cultivating the habit of saving, but they are also helping our greatest industry in its struggle with the farmers of competing countries.

During the war tremendous sums of money were obtained from the people by the sale of Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps for the purpose of killing and destroying.
 Surely our people, if they understand the situation thoroughly, will be just as willing to bring their money forward to help our farmers sell their produce on the world market at a reasonable profit; to help them win their battles against the farmers of France, Germany, United States, Russia and others who are better equipped for the fray, financially at least, than they are. Of course, the success of everybody else, so let us see to it that Alberta farmers are given the same advantages that farmers in other countries are afforded.

In my next and final article I will give a resume of the operations of the Canadian Farm Loan Board since its inception.

Future Policy Rests With Members

Future policy of the Alberta wheat pool rests with its 42,000 members as the result of 70 delegates at the annual meeting at Calgary Saturday voting to submit a referendum on the question. Three alternatives will be submitted to the members, with the added privilege of suggesting any deviations which they may desire from the proposed proposals. Members will be asked to vote on the optional plan now in effect, the contract plan in effect prior to this year's pooling arrangement, or a plan to pool grain without any initial payment.

The optional plan, inaugurated this year when prices slumped, gives members the right to pool grain on the original policy of the pool or to accept the full market price when the grain is delivered to the elevators. The contract plan was the original policy and required all members to deliver all grain to the pool, accept an initial price and receive an additional payment when grain was sold. Proposal to pool grain without an initial price has never been in effect. Under the scheme it is understood an initial price would be declared as soon as possible by the pool directorate.

Alteration of the five-cent bonus on grain was also asked by the delegates. The resolution urged "that we ask the Dominion government to change the bonus payment to the effect that all grain growers be recompensed to a minimum of at least one dollar an acre seeded, so that all those who have received no bonus and all those who would not otherwise receive this amount should be treated fairly, and that those crop producers exceed this amount bonuses to be as it is at the present time." The meeting sought, by the resolution, to provide every farmer with the maximum government aid possible.

Prairie Grain Is Moving To Pacific

With the elevators at Prince Rupert already a third full, and with enough Prairie grain en route to fill the remaining storage space there, grain traffic over the C.N. lines to Vancouver and Victoria is increasingly slow during the next few weeks. Victoria, with a storage capacity of approximately 1,200,000 bushels, has already in store 115,000 bushels, with 200 more cars, carrying 240,000 bushels now en route. Prairie grain is being transported from Port Mann by the C.N. barge and ferry service at the rate of 25 cars a day. With boats loading, and others waiting to go under the spout, grain at Vancouver is steadily moving. More than 1,500 cars are en route from the prairies, with over two million bushels for storage.

Sunshine Relieves Alberta Suffering

Never before in the history of Alberta were the needs greater in respect of relief of suffering than they are today. Through no fault of their own, thousands in the city and country feel the effects of unemployment and of farm products.

An organization that has functioned for nineteen years to relieve distress is the Calgary Herald Sunshine Society. It operates throughout the whole year.

During July, August and September no less than 7,000 individuals, mainly children were assisted by Sunshine. In October, 3,434 individuals were similarly helped. With winter weather the number naturally increases.

There are 6,000 unemployed persons in Calgary. Many come from various parts of the province after as well as those in the city. Sunshine appreciates assistance of any kind whether in money, grain, clothing or food. Potatoes, vegetables, almost any kind of farm product will be gladly received.

Those who wish to help are invited to communicate with Sunshine, care of the Calgary Herald.

Reduced Rail Fares For Yuletide Season

A glorious Christmas with loved ones by the family fire-side, will be placed within closer reach of all Canadians this year through the medium of reduced round-trip fares for Christmas and New Year's, which have been announced by the C.P.R. and C.N.R. Special privileges are being extended to non-resident school teachers and students whereby they may enjoy the low fares during the term of their official holidays. These fares are offered at the rate of one-half off the regular single-fare. Similar reductions are offered the general public over the Christmas and New Year holidays, although the period during which the tickets may be used in these cases is more limited.

For Westerners who intend to spend the Yuletide season with friends or relatives in Eastern Canada or overseas, special privileges are also afforded and these tickets are good for three to five months.

Women Urged to Buy Goods Made In Canada

"There never was a time when a further intensive effort on our own behalf was so necessary, and I believe this an opportune time to invite widespread support of the 'Produced-in-Canada' movement," said Mrs. John Scott, noted feminist when asked her opinion of the movement, which received considerable attention in the recent Produced-in-Canada week at Montreal.

Mrs. Scott added: "In making their purchases daily, weekly, monthly, yearly, Canadian women have the option of deciding whether they should choose 'Produced-in-Canada' merchandise, or whether they buy articles not produced in this Dominion. If they show a preference for the Canadian article, we, as wives and mothers, should encourage our husbands to buy this instead of imported merchandise; it means that there must be an order to replace that which has been sold. When thousands of women throughout the country follow this policy, the effect can be well imagined. An increase in the sales of 'Produced-in-Canada' merchandise inevitably creates an increased demand, and this demand when so increased, can only be met by employing more men and women thus increasing the national payroll."

"Women can make or mar the movement, and I believe once Canadian women realize the significance of the object, they will give it more support, particularly when they realize that by so doing, they are helping Canada become more prosperous," said Mrs. Scott.

The Wrong Gender

A member of one of the oriental delegations in Washington once called upon a lady of English birth and told her that he had great difficulty in mastering the English language and would appreciate greatly appreciate any correction she might make in his conversation. Upon being so bowed most politely and said,

"Madam, I must be going. I fear I have cock-creaked on your biceps."

"You should have said 'brace-ach-ed,'" corrected the lady.

"Oh thank you, Madam. I see I have the gender wrong."

Air Mail Postage Rates

Reductions Go Into Effect In Order To Stimulate Business

Representatives from business men all over Canada to the effect that lower air-mail postage rates would stimulate them to employ that medium for the transmission of their letters have been acceded to by the post office department, and certain reductions have now gone into effect, it was declared by post office officials at Ottawa. Instructions have therefore been sent to postmasters throughout the country informing them of the new rates.

No change has been made on the initial ounce, this remaining at six cents, but on each succeeding ounce the rate has been cut in half—from 10 cents to five. In general, the new rate is a flat one cent, the additional cent for the first ounce being the amount of excise tax.

For international mail, however, there is no alteration in rates.

In one of these points that could be argued for years with no answer. Geographically it is not the original Amerique, or the America which Columbus discovered. Politically it is only a unit in the western hemisphere of "America."

But all the same United States has assumed the title of "America," and its people call themselves "Americanas." This, of course, varies according to dialect within U.S. borders, all the way from "Am-ur-icans" to "Am-ur-icans."

The Latin Americans will have none of it. The name, as those with international contact testify, "burns them up" in the Latin-American countries.

They say the United States does not properly deserve the name they say they are "Americanas." They say—and do so many European countries—that they don't like the assumption that goes with the use of the word. The case is told of an influential Cuban, for instance, who rather than concede the word, called them "United States."

In short, United States citizens by the adoption of the term "Americanas" raise an artificial barrier of resentment in many parts of the world.

Certainly Canadians and British need no quarrel with it. Canadians are Canadians and it would never occur to them to call themselves Americans in any case. The same with the Britons.

But others do object. What can be done? Obviously, even if they wanted to, our good neighbors to the South couldn't call themselves "United States." The thing simply isn't done. And "Uncle Sammers" already connotes a meaning.

Well, why not "Usonians"? That is euphemistic, it is meaningful, and this is important—a certain ring or "rightness." It derives its name honestly. United States of North America, with the "U" thrown in for good measure.

A Boston lawyer has used the word "Usonian" for years. All it needs is popularizing. There is no question that, properly handled, the name would sweep the country, rivaling mah jong and miniature golf. They might even make a presidential issue of it next November. It would be a pleasant relief from prohibition and the tariff. Vancouver Sun.

YOU'LL LIKE THIS SIMPLE ONE-PIECE HOME FROCK WITH ITS SLENDERIZING LINES

It's made in a 1932 "Practically only four seams to sew!" The youthful V-shaped neckline is most becoming.

To begin with there is an interesting belt with a softly raveling jacobean pattern and other decorative styling. There is still another point—the interesting mixed envelope pockets. The removable belt may be worn at the back, front or waist.

Style No. 103 is designed for sizes 10 years, 36, 38, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 36-inch material with 3 yards of contrasting.

It has many possibilities for contrasting effects.

Yellow and white dainty print with plain cream brown denim is indeed a combination that is unique.

Slipper blue linen with white pins and plain white trim is so attractive.

Printed lawn, chintz, shirtings, rayon fabrics and ginghams are lovely suggestions.

Just a Suggestion

Name Which Our Neighbors Across the Border Might Adopt

In France it is "Etat Unis" in Italy it is "Stato Uniti" in Spain it is "Estados Unidos." In Canada, Britain and other English-speaking countries, including its own, it is "United States," sometimes "America."

Just why it should be "America" is one of those points that could be argued for years with no answer. Geographically it is not the original Amerique, or the America which Columbus discovered.

POLITICALLY it is only a unit in the western hemisphere of "America."

But all the same United States has assumed the title of "America," and its people call themselves "Americanas." This, of course, varies according to dialect within U.S. borders, all the way from "Am-ur-icans" to "Am-ur-icans."

The Latin Americans will have none of it. The name, as those with international contact testify, "burns them up" in the Latin-American countries.

They say the United States does not properly deserve the name they say they are "Americanas." They say—and do so many European countries—that they don't like the assumption that goes with the use of the word.

The case is told of an influential Cuban, for instance, who rather than concede the word, called them "United States."

In recommending adoption of the Scouts' suggestion, the Department of Education has urged co-operation of the teachers on that ground that such activities as the toy repair shop involves "correlate closely with the content of the curriculum in the industrial, domestic and in citizenship."

The plan of collecting and renovating toys for ultimate distribution among needy children has been developed to Dominion-wide proportions in recent years. In 1929, Boy Scouts of Canada collected 114 toy repair shops in operation from which renovated toys were distributed to some 15,000 children who would have been denied a better day by appointment on Christmas morning.

Last year, more toy shops were organized and an even greater number have no quarrel with it. Canadians are Canadians and it would never occur to them to call themselves Americans in any case. The same with the Britons.

But others do object. What can be done?

Obviously, even if they wanted to, our good neighbors to the South couldn't call themselves "United States."

The thing simply isn't done. And "Uncle Sammers" already connotes a meaning.

Well, why not "Usonians"?

That is euphemistic, it is meaningful, and this is important—a certain ring or "rightness."

It derives its name honestly. United States of North America, with the "U" thrown in for good measure.

A Boston lawyer has used the word "Usonian" for years.

All it needs is popularizing. There is no question that, properly handled, the name would sweep the country, rivaling mah jong and miniature golf. They might even make a presidential issue of it next November. It would be a pleasant relief from prohibition and the tariff. Vancouver Sun.

Preparing For Christmas

Vancouver Island Shipping, Holly and Trees To Eastern Canada

Five hundred tons of holly, mostly from Vancouver Island points and several times that weight of Christmas trees will soon be shipped out of the province to eastern Canada and the United States.

The recent seasonable touch of cold brought sharp reminders of arrangements for the coming winter, the commercial end of which annually brings a tidy volume of business to products in British Columbia.

It has many possibilities for contrasting effects.

Yellow and white dainty print with plain cream brown denim is indeed a combination that is unique.

Slipper blue linen with white pins and plain white trim is so attractive.

Printed lawn, chintz, shirtings, rayon fabrics and ginghams are lovely suggestions.

All patterns 25 cents in stamps or coin (postage preferred). Wrap carefully.

The Last Laugh

Former Black: "That auto party tearin' down the pike. They jes' stole the biggest hunk off'n my apple tree."

Brown: "What's funny about that?"

Black: "It had a hornets' nest on it."

It is now illegal for a man while intoxicated to ride a bicycle in St. Paul, Minn. We have always understood that it is illegal for a man to be even intoxicated in St. Paul.

For Needy Children

Saskatchewan Schools May Lend Helping Hand To Santa Claus

Saskatchewan schools may lend a hand to Santa Claus in preparation for his annual Christmas visitation, and so ensure that he shall have sufficient stock of toys on hand to go his nocturnal round without passing up a single home. If they respond to the call of the Provincial Boy Scouts, the suggestion of the Provincial Department of Education.

ing. Perhaps the school can lend a room, or buy scout headquarters. The church may supply the need in respect of some vacant store or other building, or the school may be allowed to dispose of Santa's young assistants.

So long as the place is heated, lighted and is large enough to fulfill the requirements of a toy repair shop.

Then comes the matter of the actual repairs. Some may call for ingenuity greater than the young people themselves can supply. In such cases, the school master or the services of the school manual training instructors be required, the assumption being that they will readily respond. Boys taking part in the campaign can easily demand for "scout labor." School principals, church clubs, and teachers will be found ready to contribute and it is suggested that the wherefore be kept open, as it has established a toy repair shop all in the community contribute to its success.

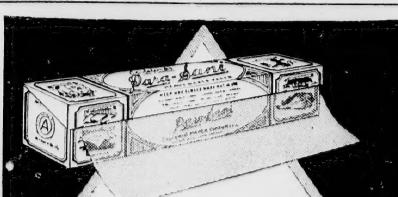

Ordinary repair work on small toys, such experience has shown, can be done surprisingly well by a group of older boys and girls who should work under the direction of a Scout Master with some skill in handicraft and a well-stocked tool chest. Mothers and older sisters, it is said, usually prove very sympathetic, and valuable material assistance in the matter of dolls, clothing and repairs on woolly animals.

The Scout organization issues warning, however, that the old chairs for which the Scouting old ones can convert, while paint and enamel can convert a battered and decrepit express wagon, sled or kidie car into a thing of beauty, they should not try to turn a perfectly good suit if distributed too lavishly over the art.

As regards distribution of the toys, it is suggested that the work be handled by a Scout Group Committee (where there is one), or by a Committee of the school established to take care of it. After local needs are provided for, it is suggested that the remainder be divided among the charitable agencies in the nearest community, for distribution there, on the understanding that if a community-wide effort is made to collect toys, they should be distributed on a community basis.

Where toy shops are organized, leaders are requested to register with the Provincial Scout Headquarters in Regina, in order to facilitate the collection of toys which have come from the greatest annual country-wide service activity and in which many agencies are lending a helping hand. Having organized a source of supply of "raw material," it is necessary, of course, to have a plant, workshop of factory in which to do the renovation.

CHAPTER V.

Among The Snows

As Jean stepped outside the hut it seemed as though she had walked straight into the heart of the storm. The bitter, ice-laden blast that howled down from the mountains caught away her breath. The fine driving flakes, crystal-hard, whipped her face, almost blinding her with the fury of their onslaught, whilst her feet slipped and slid on the newly fallen snow as she trudged along beside the Englishman.

"This is a good preparation for a dance!" she gasped breathlessly, forcing her chilled lips to a smile.

"For a dance? What dance?"

"There's a fancy dress ball at the hotel tonight. There won't be much of me—left to dance, will there?"

The Englishman laughed suddenly. "My chief concern is to get to the hotel alive," he observed grimly.

Jean looked at him quickly. "Is it as bad as that?" she asked more soberly.

"No. At least I hope not. I didn't mean to frighten you," hastily. "Only it seemed a trifle incongruous to be contemplating a dance when we may be struggling through several feet of snow in half an hour."

The fierce gusts of wind, lashing the snow about them in bewildering eddies, made conversation difficult, and they pushed on in a silence broken only by an occasional word of encouragement from the Englishman.

"All right," he queried once, as Jean puffed, pattered and spent with the fury of the storm.

She nodded speechlessly. She had no breath left to answer, but once again her lips curved in a plucky little smile. A fresh onslaught of the wind forced them onwards, and she staggered a little as it blustered by. "Here," he said quickly. "Take my arm. It will be better when we get into the pine-wood. The trees there will give some protection."

They struggled forward again, arm in arm. The swirling snow had blotted out the distant mountains; lowering storm-filled clouds made a grey twilight of the day, through which they could just discern ahead a vague, formless darkness of the pine-wood.

Another ten minutes' walking brought them to it, so that now to find the blunted edge of the storm was almost counterbalanced by the added shelter of the surrounding giant firs. High up ahead the sound would hear the muffled crackle of great branches shaken like tops in the wind, and now and again the sharper crackle of a limb wrenching violently from its parent trunk. Once there came the echoing crash of a tree torn up bodily and flung to earth.

"It's worse here," declared Jean. "I think—with a nervous laugh—"I think I'd rather die in the open!"

"It might be preferable. Only you're going to die at all, if I can help it," the Englishman returned componedly.

But, cool though he appeared, he experienced a thrill of keen anxiety as they emerged from the pinewood and his quick eyes scanned the dangerously rapid drifting of the snow.

The wind was racing down the valley now, driving the snow before it and piling it up, inch by inch, foot by foot, against the steep ground which skirted the sheet of ice where they had been skating but a few hours before.

Through the pitiless beating of the snow Jean strove to read her companion's face. It was grim and set, the lean jaw thrust out a little and the grey eyes tense and concentrated.

"Can we get through?" she asked, raising her voice so that it might carry without wind.

"If we can get through the drifted snow between here and the track on the left, we're all right," answered the man. "The wind's slanting across the valley and weight is no light one on the further side. I wish I'd got a bit or rope with me."

He felt in his pockets, finally producing the rolled-up strap of a suitcase.

"That's all I have," he said disconsolately.

"What's it for?"

"It's to go round your waist. I don't want to lose you," smiling briefly—"if you should stumble into deep snow."

"Deep snow? But it's only been snowing an hour or so," she objected.

"Evidently you don't know what a blizzard can accomplish in the way of drifting during the course of an 'hour' so I do."

Deftly he fastened the strap around her waist, and, taking the loose end, gave it a double turn about his wrist before gripping it firmly in his hand.

"Now, keep close behind me. Regard me," laughing shortly. "I am a simpleton, and if it goes down deep there suddenly through a weighty backwash as much as you can."

He moved forward, advancing cautiously. He was badly handicapped by the lack of even a stick with which to gauge the depth of drifting snow in front of him, and he tested each step before trusting his full weight to the elusive, innocent-looking surface.

Jean went forward steadily beside him, a little to the rear. The snow was everywhere considerably more than ankle-deep, and at each step she could feel that the slope of the ground increased and with it the depth of the drift through which they travelled.

The cold was intense. The icy fingers of the snow about her feet seemed to creep upward and upward till her whole body felt numb and dead, and as she stumbled along in the Englishman's wake, buffeted and beaten by the storm, her feet acted as if leaden weights were attached to them.

But she struggled on plodily. The man in front of her was taking the brunt of the hardship, cutting a path for her, as well as with his own body as he forged ahead, and she was determined not to add to his work by putting any weight on the strap which bound them together.

All at once he gave a sharp exclamation and pulled up abruptly.

"It's getting much deeper," he called out, turning back to her. "You'll never get through, hampered with

NEURITIS HAS GONE!

Banished by Kruschen

"I had acute neuritis in the shoulder and left arm, due to exposure in bad weather," writes the Rev. H. E. T. Kruschen, "and I was unable to sit or to use it in any way, and, of course, the pain was dreadful. All external applications were useless. I tried the various ointments, but found the parts affected warm and taking daily, early in the morning. Kruschen Salts were taken in hot water. It took nearly month, but every vestige of neuritis was gone."

Neuritis is typical of a dozen other complaints of the human frame, some very serious, which all result from impurities in the blood. And it is impure blood, circulating all over the system, setting up inflammation in the tissues that causes those excruciating pains.

Jean shook her head, and shouted back:

"You wouldn't get through, handicapped like that. No, let's push on as we are. I'll manage somehow."

A glint of something like admiration flickered in his eyes.

"Game little devil!" he muttered. But the wind caught up the words and Jean did not hear them. He raised his hands and held the strap from his wrist as he spoke.

"You'd do what I tell you. It's only a matter of getting through this bit of drift, and we'll be out of the worst of it. Put your arms round my neck." Then, as she hesitated: "Do you hear? Put your arms round my neck—quick!"

The dominant ring in his voice impelled her. Obediently she clasped her arms about his neck as he stooped, the lean jaw thrust out a little and the grey eyes tense and concentrated.

"Can we get through?" she asked, raising her voice so that it might carry against wind.

"If we can get through the drifted snow between here and the track on the left, we're all right," answered the man. "The wind's slanting across the valley and weight is no light one on the further side. I wish I'd got a bit or rope with me."

Then came a violent jerk and jar, as though she had been seized suddenly round the waist, and the sensation of sinking ceased abruptly.

She lay quite still where she had fallen and, looking upwards, found herself staring straight into the eyes of the Englishman. He was lying flat on his face, on a grand a little above the snow, his mouth held tight within his teeth, and finding his balance upon the straw which was fastened round his body. He had caught the flying end of it as they fell, and thus saved her from sinking into seven or eight feet of snow.

His voice came to her roughened with fierce anxiety.

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, depress the appetite, and they always affect the health and nutrition of the body. Secret Of Lipton's Success

Sir Thomas Built On Foundation Of Consistent Advertising

Equality of sacrifice among the nations was stressed as the salvation of the world, by Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner in Canada. Officiating at the annual prize giving at St. Andrew's College, Sir William addressed the students. Looking back over a generation, "which in the last 20 years has seen so many disasters come upon it, culminating in the severest and most widespread depression which the world has known," Sir William expressed a fear that even now the nations of the world had not yet learned their lesson.

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment is unrivaled for speedy relief in muscular rheumatism, lame back, inflammation, burns and felonias.

Secret Of Lipton's Success

Sir Thomas Built On Foundation Of Consistent Advertising

With the death of Sir Thomas J. Lipton advertising loses one of its firm believers. From the first time he started a grocery store in his native Glasgow until he reached the peak of a $20,000,000 millionaire corporation, Sir Thomas built much of his success on the firm foundation of consistent advertising. Lipton's Tea is known throughout the world. His publicity schemes were many, and his "understanding of advertising" is credited with bringing him the phenomenal success he enjoyed.

Clever Advertising

Among the good things we've run across lately in advertising is the use of a feather in an advertisement for ball bearings to illustrate the "feather-light" quality of the product. As we remember it, the advertisement used just the word "quiet" a picture of a couple of feathers and the trade name.
